

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When access is attempted by a device equipped with Web client capabilities, a device connected to a network and equipped with Web server capabilities

- judges whether to restrict the access. If it is judged that the access should be restricted, information about the reason for the access restriction is sent regardless of the information possessed by the device equipped with Web client capabilities.